Case No. 3:15-cv-01887-JST

1 Plaintiffs in the above cases have submitted a proposed Interim Order for Preservation of 2 Evidence to preserve evidence relevant to these related actions, which the Court now adopts as set 3 forth herein (the "Order"). Plaintiffs and Defendant Lumber Liquidators, Inc. (collectively, the 4 "Parties") have discussed their preservation obligations and needs and have agreed that preservation of 5 potentially relevant evidence, including electronically stored information (ESI), will be reasonable and 6 proportionate. This Order relates to document preservation including ESI, and samples as discussed
 7 herein and does not address the relevancy, discoverability, or admissibility of any evidence. Lumber
 8 Liquidators has not waived its position that these related cases should be transferred to the Eastern 9 District of Virginia and that the terms of this Order may have to be revised in the event that the more 10 than 90 cases now pending before the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation are centralized and 11 transferred to a single district and judge. The Parties will continue to meet and confer as the case
 12 progresses and the Parties learn more about the scope of discovery or the nature of Lumber
 13 Liquidators' document storage systems, and any Party shall be free to seek amendment of this Interim 14 Order.

15 One purpose of the present Order is to maintain the status quo until such time as the Judicial 16 Panel on Multidistrict Litigation either selects a transferee court or denies the pending motion to 17 coordinate. This Court, or a transferee court, may hereafter modify any term of this Order, including 18 the terms regarding the temporal or subject matter scope of Lumber Liquidators' or its agents' 19 obligation to maintain documents or information. Also, the terms of this Order regarding temporal and 20 subject matter scope are intended to govern evidence preservation only, and do not constitute findings
 21 by the Court regarding any party or entity's obligation to produce documents in response to a future 22 discovery request in this proceeding.

23 To reduce the costs and burdens of preservation and to ensure proper evidence is preserved, the 24 Parties are ordered:

- 25 1. To preserve all documents, electronically stored information, and tangible things¹ that

26 _____
 27 ¹ As defined by Fed. R. Civ. P. 34.
 28

1 contain information relevant to the related actions including information relating to Lumber
2 Liquidators' indoor air quality testing program, such as protocols, communications, customer service
3 logs and recordings, and test results. This Order incorporates by reference the preservation duties set 4 forth in Section 40.25 ¶ 3 of the Manual for Complex Litigation, Fourth.

5 2. That the relevant time period for these actions for preservation purposes only is, as a 6 general matter, January 1, 2009 through the present day. The Parties will preserve documents that are 7 relevant to activities implicated by these related actions during that time period. To the extent that 8 relevant documents pre-dating that period exist, the Parties are obligated to identify and preserve those 9 documents.

10 3. That documents and ESI will be preserved for the following types of custodians:

11 a. Named plaintiffs.

12 b. Lumber Liquidators' employees or agents who are likely to have relevant 13 information, such as marketing personnel, regulatory compliance personnel, scientific or engineering 14 personnel, sales and finance personnel, and customer service or warranty personnel.

15 c. Manufacturing facilities, distributors, shippers, or any other party involved in 16 the manufacturing, testing (for formaldehyde emissions), or shipping of the laminated flooring at issue
17 to the extent said documents or ESI are within the possession, custody or control of Lumber
18 Liquidators. To the extent that Lumber Liquidators has control over such entities and can require them 19 to preserve said evidence, Lumber Liquidators is hereby ordered to do so, and shall be responsible for 20 their compliance. In addition, to the extent that such entities are not within its control, Lumber 21 Liquidators agrees to promptly request preservation of said documents or ESI. Within seven days of 22 entry of this Order, Lumber Liquidators shall provide to all third parties likely to possess relevant
23 evidence, whether they are under Lumber Liquidators' control or not, a written communication
24 containing the language set forth in Exhibit A hereto. For entities located in China, Lumber 25 Liquidators shall provide the Notice in English and Chinese.

26 4. To preserve the flooring at issue as follows:

27 a. Lumber Liquidators will preserve and not destroy until plaintiffs' experts have 28 had a reasonable opportunity to inspect or test, any Chinese-made laminated flooring that is the subject

1 of any warranty claim against Lumber Liquidators. This does not mean that Lumber Liquidators may 2 not sell its products.

3 b. Lumber Liquidators will preserve and not destroy until plaintiffs' experts have 4 had a reasonable opportunity to inspect or test, any exemplars or samples that were provided to 5 Lumber Liquidators by any Chinese manufacturer of the laminated flooring at issue.

6 c. Lumber Liquidators will preserve and not destroy until plaintiffs' experts have 7 had a reasonable opportunity to inspect or test, any laminated flooring manufactured in China that is 8 currently warehoused or stored by Lumber Liquidators. This does not mean that Lumber Liquidators 9 may not sell its products.

10 d. From the date that the Court signs this Order, named plaintiffs will not remove 11 or replace their Lumber Liquidators' flooring without preserving samples of the flooring that they have 12 removed or replaced.

13 e. The parties shall meet and confer regarding an acceptable protocol on the 14 storage of any preserved samples or flooring.

15 5. The parties recognize that some data sources may not be reasonably accessible because 16 of undue burden or cost pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(B) and ESI from these sources will be 17 preserved, but not searched, reviewed, or produced. Lumber Liquidators will have the burden to 18 establish a data source as not reasonably accessible. The Parties will meet and confer at a later date to 19 discuss whether such data sources exist. The plaintiffs do not waive any right to dispute the 20 inaccessibility of the data or to argue that no cost shifting should occur even if the data is deemed to be 21 not reasonably accessible.

EXHIBIT A

Notice Re: Need to Preserve Evidence Relevant to Formaldehyde Use/Testing in Lumber Liquidators' Laminate Flooring Products Originating in China

On [date], Lumber Liquidators, Inc. ("Lumber Liquidators") was ordered by a judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California to preserve evidence of any kind (including electronic documents, such as e-mails) that may be relevant to lawsuits pending against Lumber Liquidators, including Balero et al. v. Lumber Liquidators, Inc., 3:15-cv-01005-JST (N.D. Cal.) and a number of related cases. The lawsuits allege that Lumber Liquidators sells laminated wood flooring products in the United States that emit formaldehyde at levels exceeding the limits set by the California Air Resources Board ("CARB"). Specifically, the claims in the lawsuits apply to laminate flooring products made with medium density fiberboard ("MDF") produced in China. The lawsuits also allege that Lumber Liquidators falsely advertises all of its Chinese-manufactured laminated flooring products as compliant with CARB's regulations, and that Lumber Liquidators is liable for fraud, negligence, breach of contract, breach of warranty, and other alleged violations of law. Lumber Liquidators strongly disputes these allegations, nonetheless, the law obligates Lumber Liquidators to preserve evidence that may be relevant to this litigation; therefore, in addition to requiring its agents, employees, and others under its control to preserve relevant evidence, Lumber Liquidators is also asking third parties to preserve documents in accordance with this notice.

The types of documents, data and tangible things ("evidence") that Lumber Liquidators has been ordered to preserve include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Evidence related to the sourcing, manufacture, and sale of Chinese-made MDF used in laminated flooring products offered for sale by Lumber Liquidators, including financial records and documents showing the specifications and manufacturing process of such MDF.
- Documents and other evidence related to any tests of formaldehyde emissions from any products or components of products containing Chinese-made MDF used in laminated flooring products offered for sale by Lumber Liquidators, including communications with Lumber Liquidators employees or agents concerning testing of formaldehyde emissions.

- Documents related to compliance with CARB's formaldehyde emissions as it relates to MDF used in products manufactured for, distributed to, sold to, or sold by Lumber Liquidators, including any related communications with Lumber Liquidators employees or agents. This includes, but is not limited to, documents related to the preparations made by or on behalf of Lumber Liquidators to meet the CARB formaldehyde emissions standards as those standards apply to Chinese-made laminated flooring products.
- Documents related to Lumber Liquidators' quality assurance measures, quality control measures, site inspections, or any other oversight by Lumber Liquidators, or its agents with respect to any facilities used to produce or test MDF laminated flooring products made in China.
- Documents and other evidence related to Lumber Liquidators' indoor air quality testing program. Relevant information includes, but is not limited to, communications with customers, communications with Lumber Liquidators (including its attorneys, consultants, and agents), communications with other laboratories, consultants, or entities, test results, samples, log records, and lab analyses.

The Court's Order extends to documents dating back to January 1, 2009, or earlier if the documents pertain to important issues in the lawsuits, such as Lumber Liquidators' preparation for the implementation of the CARB regulations governing formaldehyde emission levels from flooring made with MDF.

Until further notice, you, your employees, your agents, and any other individuals or entities within your control must preserve any and all documents, data, and tangible things in your possession, custody or control that contain information that may be relevant to the lawsuits, as described above.

"Documents, data, and tangible things" is to be interpreted broadly to include: writings; records; files; correspondence; reports; memoranda; calendars; diaries; minutes; electronic messages; voicemail; E-mail; telephone message records or logs; computer and network activity logs; hard drives; backup data; removable computer storage media such as tapes, disks, and cards; printouts; document image files; Web pages; databases; spreadsheets; software; books; ledgers; journals; orders; invoices; bills; vouchers; checks; statements; worksheets; summaries; compilations; computations; charts; diagrams; graphic presentations; drawings; films; charts; digital or chemical process photographs; video; phonographic tape; or digital recordings or transcripts thereof; drafts; jottings; and notes. Information that serves to identify, locate, or link such material, such as file inventories, file folders, indices, and metadata, is also included in this definition.

1 “Preservation” is to be interpreted broadly to accomplish the goal of maintaining the integrity
2 of all documents, data, and tangible things reasonably anticipated to be relevant to the above-
3 mentioned lawsuits. Preservation includes taking reasonable steps to prevent the partial or full 4 destruction, alteration, testing, deletion, shredding, incineration, wiping, relocation, migration, theft, or 5 mutation of such material, as well as negligent or intentional handling that would make material
6 incomplete or inaccessible. If your business practices involve the routine destruction, recycling, 7 relocation, or mutation of such materials, you must, to the extent practicable for the pendency of the 8 related cases, either halt such business processes, sequester or remove such material from the business
9 process, or arrange for the preservation of complete and accurate duplicates or copies of such material, 10 suitable for later discovery if requested.

11 Thank you for your cooperation.
